COMPULSORY EDUCATION.

The questions below given were submitted to the writer with the accompanying request: "Will you answer the following questions—yes or no—and then discuss them?"

"Is it true that the family has the first claim on a child?"

"If true, is compulsory education consistent with the claim, or is it consistent with liberty?"

The answer made to each question is "yes." While the answer to the last question places the writer in antagonism to some of the best writers of the nineteenth century he believes he is aware of the cause of antagonism. It is also believed that the author of the questions is aware of the position the writer is in under our system, when it is compared with European ideas about education from the beginning to the middle of the nineteenth century. To be consistent with liberty, as it was then and as it is now understood, the family should have the care of the education of the child. It is conceded that it is the duty of the State to provide the means to educate the children to make them intelligent and useful citizens.

When the means is provided the duty of the State is not closed as it is also its duty to apply the means through compulsion when it is necessary to do so. In the latter position is the difference under our system of compulsory education wherever applied and the ideas of a majority of the people in Europe in the first half of the last century.

It continues to the present to be the view in the larger part of Europe that compulsory education is an innovation upon the right of the family over the child. It is also the opinion of many people in the United States that the State should not exercise the right to educate by compulsion. The seeming difficulty is in the environment of the people of Europe and in the environment of the people of the United States, which has its solution in moral or in religious training.

In most of the States in Europe there is an established system of religion which includes a system of religious belief and moral ethics, which is largely taught in the schools. Those who do not conform to the system of religion as taught by the State in the schools claim that the right of conscience is interfered with and liberty is abridged, which would be largely true under a compulsory system of education.

There should be no question about the right of the family to teach the child the religion of the family, be it Catholic or Protestant, Christian or non-Christian. When that right is conceded and protected, the objection to compulsory education by the State is not only removed, but the right to enforce a secular education in favor of the child receives support upon the theory that the State is interested in the education of its youth.

The State does not control or prescribe rules of conscience or religious belief for its citizens, nor does it claim the right to direct the religious education of their children. Conscience or religious training are not interfered with in any particular. These are matters which are permitted to remain in the exclusive control of the family. More than exclusive control of these matters are permitted under our system as the family is protected in the exercise of conscience and in the religious training of the children of the family.

It may be when the cause for excluding all sectarian or religious training from the public schools is better understood that the wisdom exercised through the exclusion will be appreciated and more generally approved. The right of conscience and the exercise of religious belief as directed by conscience, has furnished differences over which there has been much blood shed when it has been sought by government to impose upon all the people by law the same form of religious belief. It was under such conditions that the most enlightened men opposed compulsory education in public schools provided by the State.

When the cause of opposition has been removed, the cause for argument is closed by removing both the cause and the argument from the field of contention. Peace, when the cause of difference is removed, becomes a source from which enjoyment flows to the people where strife was maintained and blood flowed.

There should not be any question respecting the exercise of the right to compel the family to educate its children when the consequence of the family remains free and its religious beliefs are not in any manner controlled. The right not to educate, as contended for by one intelligent author, which the writer's memory calls up, does not exist in a Republic where a continuance of a Republican system is dependent upon education and the intelligence of the citizen. The citizen is not required to educate in a public or State school, but the State has provided public schools to meet its demand for compulsory education. A citizen may educate his children in a private school should he desire to do so. The requirement is—educate, which is not compulsory in any intelligent community as the people are more than anxious to educate their children, which removes compulsion.

ABOUT MINE AND MINER

Notes Gathered From Exchanges About This Industry.

Twenty-seven Comstock mining companies report having cash balances on a May 1st. The Com Cal & Va leads the list, with assets of $9,456,211, only two companies, Bickel and Utah, report liabilities in excess of their assets.

Four carloads of Tompah ore passed through to Salt Lake last week. The Times Review says that F. Rayler, a mill man connected with the Montana Limited Mining Company, has gone to White Rock to begin the erection of a twenty stamp mill on the property recently purchased by his company.

The working of the Abe Lincoln mine put considerable money in circulation in Pioche. It is a big help to the old camp.—Record.

The Tuscarora-Dexter Company made their regular monthly shipment of bullion and cyanide Sunday.

In answer to a dispatch requesting the management of the Dexter-Tuscarora company's property at Tuscarora, Nevada, to forward fifteen miners at once, George A. Hild, the company's secretary, began recruiting yesterday, and at night had seven men who were willing to go. An increase of force was the explanation.—Salt Lake Tribune.

Work on the oil well has been discontinued for a short time on account of quicksand. This necessitates taking out the six-inch pipe and putting light-inch in its place. The new pipe has been ordered and as soon as it arrives work will be resumed and pushed as fast as possible. The delay should not cause anyone to lose faith in the ultimate success of the enterprise.—Elko Independent.

Colonel W. J. Sutherland, a mining promoter, has sued Philip Deldeshleuer, another mining man, for $520 in the San Francisco courts on a note dated November 11, 1906.

It is remarked by every one who comes to Tompah that it has the happiest and best natured lot of men ever seen in a mining camp, and in addition it contains as fine a lot of miners as one will ever see in one camp.

The Mexican Mining Company have leased an assessment of 10 cents per share.

A four-foot vein of oil formation has been found on all city lots south of Green ranch. The find adjoins the section on which the Duluth oil men will sink a well.—Independent.

The annual meeting of the Scorpion Mining Company was held yesterday at San Francisco and the following directors were elected for the ensuing year: William Bannan, B. F. Shaw, W. R. Sherwood, George M. Scott and Wm. Rowers. William Bannan was elected president, B. F. Shaw, vice president, J. B. Shaw, secretary and W. G. Douglas, superintendent.

The desert region of southeastern California and southern Nevada is making very rapid progress towards the mining greatness it is bound to realize.—Chronicle.

The general impression that has been abroad among mining men regarding Robinson Mining District, Nevada is that it is a gold and copper camp. A correspondent of the White Pine News says that while we admit such to be the fact this district is designated at no distant day to be a great lead producer as well.

PILOT POISONED.
Pilot the mascot of the Merklinger barber shop, died from the effects of poison yesterday. Pilot was a bull pup and a real excellent scrapper.

PLENTY OF CHASER.
The Carson River is still booming. At Empire Wiggins is dispensing liquid refreshments from the second story.—Appeal.

SAGEBRUSH OCCURRENCES

Interesting happenings in the State Gleaned From Exchanges.

Carson River is higher at the present time for the past ten years. The people of Carlin have already raised $300 for a Fourth of July celebration.

Louis Sharp and Miss May McCann, both of Belmont, were married Tuesday night.

The case of Lander county vs. the Nevada Central Railroad Company is on trial at Austin. The suit is for the recovery of taxes for 1900 amounting to $285.64. The company refused to pay its taxes, claiming that its property had depreciated in value and that the Assessor's valuation was excessive.

Work along the grade is being pushed by the Short Line forces, and from what we can learn the road is being constructed in first-class shape, notwithstanding reports to the contrary. Both sides are buying right of way through ranches, and both company forces are active, and when they go to sleep, they keep both eyes open.—Lincoln County Record.

Mrs. Isabella Norrie died at Carson Sunday, aged 72 years.

The stage company has put on a six-horse fast freight team between Carson and Bodk in order to carry freight for the new camps south of Gardnerville.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of William Clay and Miss Ella Reynolds, which will take place next Tuesday evening—Wadsworth Dispatch.

Miss Lena Walley and Tom Ross, two of Mason Valley's popular young people, were married last Saturday.

Charles Kleber, who taught the Genoa school a few years ago, is now assistant Professor of logic at the Stanford University, succeeding Professor Lovelock, who resigned because of his sympathy with the cause of Professors Ross and Howard.

TIMBLIN CAPTURED
A dispatch was received at the police station yesterday from Constable Leeper that he had captured a man named Timblin who is wanted here.

Timblin was caught at the depot in Sacramento. He was recognized by the Constable as the latter was passing through on his way to Modesto after a horse thief.

The prisoner was indicted six months ago by the grand jury but made an escape before he could be apprehended. Sheriff McInnis made a trip to California several months ago to get him, but was unsuccessful.

SAVED BY PALMISTRY.
Tattered Individual Proves His Case by Showing His Hands.

"Reasoning from antecedent probability," said the justice to a prisoner with a sappy hat and a turned down mouth, "I would say that when this policeman accuses you of being a tramp he is speaking with a high regard for the truth."

"Knowing little about logic," the defendant replied, "I am unable to say whether I am guilty on that point. But by palmistry I am innocent. My life line is good, my capacity for hard work is simply astonishing, and my confidence in my own ability is superb."

"Score one for palmistry. Now hold up your hands."

"I can't tell whether you have worked by the looks of those hands," said the justice. "But in the interest of the spread of knowledge I will direct and say to you that an article known as soap was invented some years ago."

"Never heard of it," said the prisoner cheerfully, "and I know just as much about my guilt or innocence as I do about soap. You might try me by a jury of my peers."

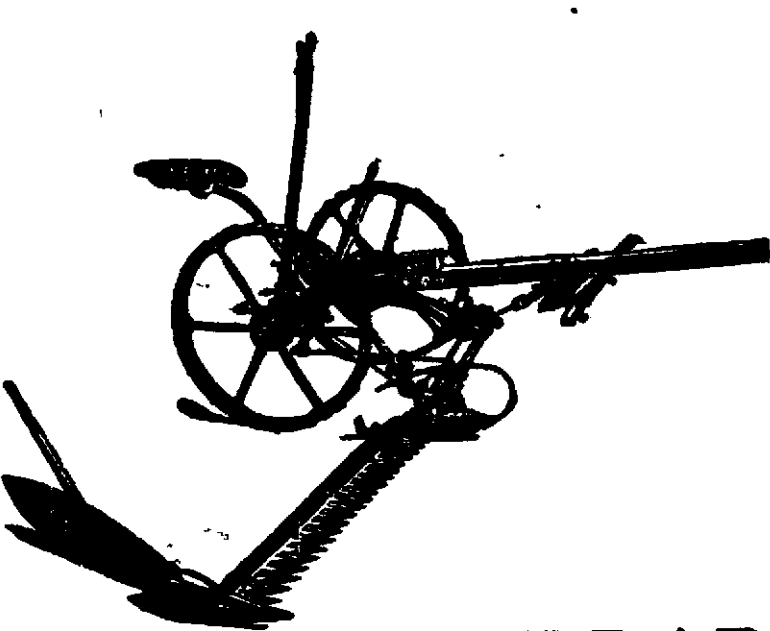

"Your peers are too busy telling fairy tales to bartenders on this muggy morning to come out to help the ends of justice. The dollar they'd get for jury service would make them die of heart disease."

"A doctor told me I'd never have that," the prisoner said.

"I'm not intensely interested in the state of your health," the justice said coldly. "I don't know whether you're a tramp and neither do you. I am inclined to the opinion that you are, but I guess no policeman will arrest you between here and the corner."

The prisoner made the trial trip successfully, and was seen no more.—Chicago Journal.

FOUGHT FOR HIS LIFE.
My father and sister both died of Consumption," writes J. T. Weatherwax, of Wyandotte, Mich., "and I was saved from the same frightful fate only by Dr. King's New Discovery. An attack of pneumonia left an obstinate cough and a very severe lung trouble which an excellent doctor could not help but a few months' use of this wonderful medicine made me as well as ever and I gained much in weight." Infallible for colds, croup, whooping cough, influenza, Croup, Croup, and all Throat and Lung trouble. Trial bottles free. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1. Sold by S. J. Hodgkinson.

Mrs. McKinley Improving.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 17.—At a late hour last night it was announced that Mrs. McKinley was much better and the physicians were very hopeful. She had taken nourishment and seemed to have derived great benefit from it. She is conscious and suffers no pain. If improvement continues she will soon be out of danger.

Strike Situation.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 17.—The militia fired into a crowd on the street yesterday afternoon, after stones had been thrown at them, killing one man and fatally wounding another. The victims were merchants of good standing in the business community.

Missionaries Murdered.

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 17.—Australian papers received yesterday tell a horrible story of the murder of two English missionaries in New Guinea. Both men were butchered and their bodies eaten by savages.

Jeffries, who is in New York, has decided to go to San Francisco and get a match with Ruhlin.

The Chinese Cook.
Mrs. White determined in the first flush of her newly acquired dignity that she was not going to be "squeezed" by the Chinese cook and the storekeeper, as it was quite plain every one else was. Accordingly she purchased a seal and weights and announced her intention of personally weighing everything. For some days this method proved very satisfactory, but she was sometimes a little puzzled on finding that the provisions occasionally weighed more than was charged for.

One day the mystery was solved. She was carefully weighing a chicken in China not only is everything, living and dead, sold by weight, but fowls are always supplied alive. The chicken during the weighing operation suddenly entered a vigorous objection and began to flap and struggle with all its might, and during these vigorous and stagey movements, something fell from its wing, a third to the floor, evidently from somewhere about the chicken. This turned out to be a large piece of lead which had been cunningly fastened under one of the wings. Further investigation led to the discovery of a similar piece underneath the other wing. The overweight of the past few days was now accounted for.—Chambers' Journal.

Christening the Children.
An English parson of a church in Berbee, British Guiana, writes entertainingly of his pastoral duties. In the matter of christening the choice of name is left to the taste or fancy of the parents. This leads to strange combinations. He copies the following: "Nannie Belona," "Trunk Locust" and "Whisky Emmanuel." Of earlier times he tells the following:

One black man brought his child, and when the minister asked its name he said, "Seriatim ad Valorem."

On another occasion the parson asked, "What is the name of the child?" The father said, "Ah, parson." The minister looked inquiringly at the man and said:

"But I don't understand you."

"Well, parson," said the man, "my mind give me to go too de New Testament. I have had four boys. The first was named Matthew, the second Mark, the third Luke and the fourth John. Now, this the fifth one, is to be as (God), parson."

Old Fashioned Cancer Cure.
Take the common sheep sorrel which grows in your yard and which children eat because of its sourness, mash it up into a pulp in some vessel that will save all the juice that would otherwise be lost, then put it into a bag and squeeze out all the juice on to a pewter plate to get some of the acid from the metal, then put this in the sun and let it dry until about as thick as tar, then put in tight bottle. If the skin is not broken, put a drop of chloroform or potash or lye on it to break the skin and then apply the sorrel on the cancer, just covering it with a thin coat. If the sorrel gets too thick, a little water will make it so that it can be handled.

The pain will be severe, but it is otherwise harmless. It will stop hurting in a few hours. Keep up these applications, one every day, until the cancer can be lifted out without pain. It took four days in my case. The sorrel will cook the cancer, but it does not eat it as it does the flesh, hence it eats all the flesh away and lets the cancer loose. When you see the cancer, put the sorrel on it and not on the flesh. When the cancer is out, heal the sore with any kind of healing ointment.—J. A. Wayland in Appeal to Reason.

Early Use of Pigeons.
Pigeons were employed in early Egyptian days, navigators taking them on their galleys and liberating them when they arrived at their destination in order to announce their safe arrival to their friends or employers. The Romans utilized them in communicating with each other in wartime.

GROUNDLESS RUMOR

A Communication Relative to the Interests of the Mine Owner's Association.

Editor Journal—I was surprised when I read the item in this morning's Journal to the effect that a rumor was current to the effect that the proposed Washoe County Mine Owners' Association would be inimical to the Washoe County Miners' Union.

THE RUMOR. It is astonishing that there should be in this town in this twentieth century anyone that has little enough judgment to have a thought or utter a word to bring it to bear upon the people's mind that the association could have any bearing against the miners' union.
